Philanthropic Opportunities: Logistics support

CHL's diverse training programs - DESLH, CLP and PLC - involve complex logistics and require a dedicated team for each training to manage the organisational aspects of the course.

Travel to and from the in-person unit training for course academics, coaches and other support staff, as well as accommodation, subsistence, course material translation and IT infrastructure generate significant costs for the program.

As humanitarian crises situations are spreading across continents, there is a growing need for more localised and context-specific training in humanitarian leadership. CHL is expanding its crisis leadership training to new geographical areas to address these needs.

Why support CHL logistics: impact of your support

We now operate in West & Central Africa, Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Financial support, or support-in-kind, enables the CHL to allocate resources to develop further training programs, covering a larger geographical area. Your support will enable us to expand the Crisis Leadership Program within these regions and provide new context specific courses.

In addition to the opportunity to support the organisational costs of training humanitarian professionals to be better equipped to lead teams in crisis situations, donors benefit from a comprehensive impact report for internal CSR monitoring, evaluation and accountability.

Donors may also request a senior member of the CHL staff to speak at an internal company event to share details of the humanitarian leadership training and impact on the lives of the communities affected by conflict, crisis or disaster.
